

Focus on Rupert Moss-Eccardt

Rupert's personal and professional experience would make him a good, liberal Police and Crime Commissioner able to require the highest standards from the Constabulary:

- Rupert helped to establish the National Centre for Policing Excellence, supporting law enforcement policy development.
- He currently delivers cyber security advice and guidance to more than a quarter of national policing
- Rupert also provided national support via the Specialist Operations Centre
- Independent Custody Visitor

Rupert's record of public service in Cambridgeshire has included:

- Cambs Lib Dem candidate for Police Commissioner 2012 & 2016
- Lib Dem County Councillor 2005-10
- He has campaigned in elections in every district and city in Cambridgeshire and Peterborough.

Rupert is a cyber security expert with extensive experience in the policing world. His office is at his home in Ely.

Rupert is a committed Lib Dem campaigner who is determined to fight for our privacy and security and a criminal justice system that works better for everyone.

"Giving the police more and more draconian and disproportionate powers is not the way to cut crime.

"I have worked with some of the best police officers in the world. They are the ones who are contemptuous of gimmicks, gadgets and extra powers and, instead, do a good job by performing to the highest standards.

"Britain sends officers all over the world to teach 'policing by consent'. If we allow crazy authoritarian politicians to push illiberal measures, we will no longer be able to put ourselves forward as an example."

Rupert as a County Councillor campaigning for better public transport.

Cutting crime Together

We can stop crime happening in the first place by following such evidence-led approaches as:

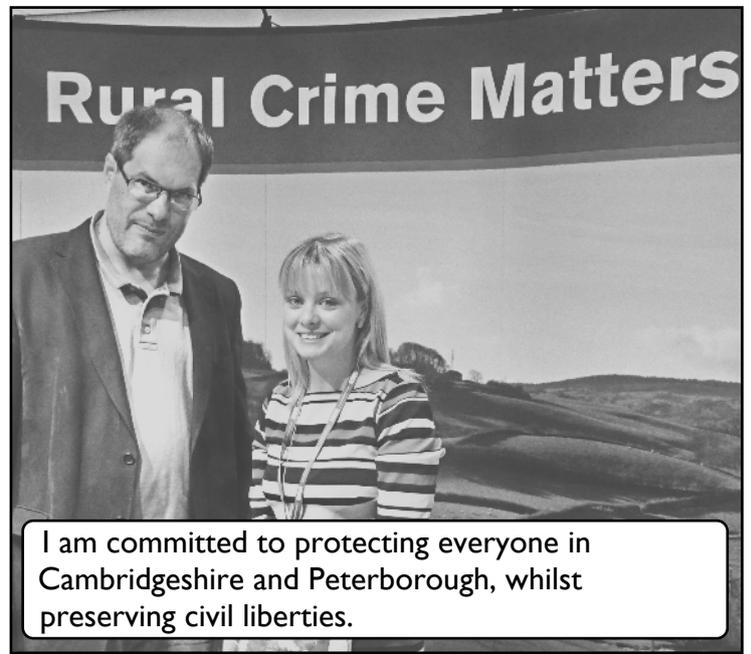

- Investing more in Restorative Justice to reduce re-offending, especially amongst first-time offenders
- Investing in diversion schemes to discourage that first offence
- Establish a robust offender management scheme so that repeat offenders are persuaded to move away from crime

These investments will:

- Reduce crime
- Reduce the fear of crime
- Enable us to go about our lives more freely

- The current PCC has been virtually invisible.
- We must use the post to improve lives
- We must stop any right-wing or authoritarian candidate.

I am committed to protecting everyone in Cambridgeshire and Peterborough, whilst preserving civil liberties.

Winning Together

The campaign has to start now so that we can develop our Core Vote and:

- Take advantage of the current surge.
- Come at least second in 2020
- Use that to win the Mayoralty

I know how to win against Labour and Tories, having helped David Howarth get a winning 15% swing in Cambridge, a larger swing in 2011 in Ely North and our marvellous result this year in East Cambs.

I have no other political commitments so will be able to give the campaign the time it deserves.

I have the energy, experience and ideas for us to win in Cambridgeshire and Peterborough
